

To Youth Network

6th April 2026

Endorsement Letter for LCOY Taiwan 2026

To the above mentioned organizations\organizers,

It is with great pleasure that the LCOY Working Group of YOUNGO, the official Children and Youth Constituency of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) has APPROVED your application to host a Local Conference of Youth (LCOY) and is pleased to officially support and endorse the above indicated LCOY.

Formally recognized in 2009, YOUNGO serves as the official voice of young people from across the globe in the UN climate negotiations under the UNFCCC. Since the very beginning, YOUNGO has organized and hosted a Conference of Youth each year immediately prior to the annual Conference of Parties (COP) to the UNFCCC. This meeting provides a crucial space for youth to gather for networking, topical training, and preparation to effectively engage in the COP and other UN processes relating to climate change, environmental protection and sustainable development.

In 2015, the global wave of energy around COP21, which gave us the Paris Agreement, sparked an interest by many young people who could not attend the main conferences in Paris to organize parallel conferences. Known as “Local COYs”, these meetings played a critical role in mobilizing more young people for climate action than ever before around the world. This practice of Local COYs continued since then. As the world now moves into pursuing implementation of the Paris Agreement and raising ambitions in national and global efforts, it is more important than ever to engage young people beyond the realm of just the negotiations at the UNFCCC. This year, we are looking forward to seeing many LCOYs worldwide working towards increasing youth participation in the light of COY21 and COP31 in Antalya, Türkiye.

Therefore, your willingness to undertake the task of organizing a Local COY for the youth in your country and region is a vital part of this global collective effort by young people. The YOUNGO LCOY Working Group is looking forward to working with you and warmly invites you to participate in its processes. Please keep in mind that the global LCOY community is formed by the LCOYs it comprises, including you and your team.

Having noted your acceptance of the provisions of the LCOY Policy in line with the application process, we trust you will conduct your work according to the expected practices, as a condition of this endorsement. These are listed in the attachment to this document. Please pay specific attention to the youth statement and the conference report as you proceed, as all LCOYs are required to submit these two deliverables, which are crucial beyond the Local COY itself.

Please utilize this letter as necessary in the pursuit of any required support and sponsorship in order to make your plans for a Local COY become reality. We encourage potential partners and/or funders to regard this approval letter as our warmest invitation to support this highly qualified team in planning and hosting their national LCOY in 2026. If any potential partner and/or funder requires further information to finalize an agreement, please feel free to reach out to the LCOY Working Group via lcoywg@gmail.com.

Once again, we wish you all the very best on behalf of the YOUNGO LCOY Working Group and we look forward to working with you!

Sincerely,

Dr. Anirudh Janagam

Jeremy Nathanael Dhardja

2026 LCOY Liaisons
YOUNGO LCOY Working Group

Rights and Responsibilities

1. LCOYs have the right to use the names “Local Conference of Youth on Climate Change,” “Local Conference of Youth,” and “LCOY,” and the official LCOY logo as part of the branding for their conference.
2. LCOYs have the right to receive an official endorsement letter by YOUNGO in English as well as in any other requested language, subject to the LCOY WG’s capacity for translation.
3. LCOYs have the right to be connected to YOUNGO’s partners via the LCOY WG, and to receive opportunities for support through YOUNGO.
4. LCOYs have the right to seek out partnerships, sponsorships, and collaborations to support the conference. Partners, sponsors, or collaborators must not profit from or have a hand in supporting the continued existence of the fossil fuels industry or other interests contrary to those of the climate movement. Partners, sponsors, or collaborators with indirect connections to the fossil fuel industry, such as institutions that have received money from it, are discouraged.
5. LCOYs may collaborate with non-youth entities. This collaboration must be strictly limited to providing support for the LCOY, such as by providing funding, or amplifying its message, and not interfere with the youth-led nature of the organizing process. Non-youth entities may not take part in matters of programming, financial management, logistics, or general coordination of the conference.
6. LCOYs may not charge registration or participation fees of any kind. All LCOY activities must be free of charge.
7. LCOYs have the right to raise funds to finance the conference. All money raised in the name of an LCOY must be used for that LCOY’s expenses. It is strictly forbidden to use any funds raised in the name of an LCOY to pay for hosts’ personal expenses or non-LCOY-related activities.
8. LCOYs must not be used for personal branding or propaganda, whether by hosts, partners, or external entities.
9. LCOYs must strive to minimize their environmental impact as much as possible in all of their operations. It is strictly forbidden to use carbon offsetting or any kind of emission compensation mechanisms as a method for addressing the conference’s environmental impact.
10. LCOYs must produce a National Youth Statement capturing participants’ views on climate change in their country, including national and international policy demands and recommendations. LCOYs have the right to have this outcome document be formally recognized and published by YOUNGO and its ideas incorporated into the Global Youth Statement and YOUNGO’s overall advocacy actions at COP.

11. LCOYs must write and present a conference report to the LCOY WG. This report must contain information about the number of participants and the demographics represented, the activities carried out during the conference, the communication and financial strategies employed, and a list of partners, sponsors, and collaborators with their specific contributions. This report may also include information about the conference's main achievements, problems encountered, lessons learned, or other information deemed useful for the continued improvement of the LCOY processes around the world.
12. LCOYs have the right to develop their own unique visual identity for the country where they are held.
13. LCOYs have the right to use dedicated email and social media accounts for their conferences. These accounts are centrally managed by the LCOY WG in collaboration with the YOUNGO Communications Team. The LCOY liaisons are responsible for sharing access to these accounts with the approved LCOY hosts for each LCOY cycle.
14. LCOYs have the right to nominate at least one representative from their organizing team to the Global Conference of Youth on Climate Change. The LCOY WG is responsible for determining the criteria and process for the nomination of the representatives each year.
15. LCOYs must stay in close contact with the LCOY WG for the purpose of guidance, support, and oversight. A minimum of one check-in meeting with the LCOY WG must take place every month until the delivery of the conference report.
16. LCOYs must provide the Liaisons of the LCOY WG with their participants' email addresses for the purpose of direct evaluation as part of their final report. Participants must be informed, as part of the initial information gathering consent, that their information will be shared with the LCOY WG for this purpose.
17. LCOYs must organize themselves effectively and professionally in order to maintain the good reputation of YOUNGO specifically, and of the global youth climate movement in general.

